EXTENSION AGENT

Appomattox farmers and land owners in 1967 submitted 317 soil samples for testing.

More testing needs to be done by home owners with gardens and lawns. Farmers also should take advantage of this opportunity.

Southhampton County again submitted the largest number of samples, 5,372.

Statewide in 1969 the samples tested were up. 70,707 were received; this is 3,000 more than in 1968.

Tobacco growers will want to attend the 1970 Tobacco Growers Trade Fair. It's to be held March 11 12-13 at Rocky Mount, N. C. at People's Warehouse.

Tobacco growers are asking: How can I increase tobacco profits? Is there some way that I can reduce labor requirements? That's why the Trade Fair is being held -- you'll enjoy it.

Swine research in six states agree that meaty hogs need more than a 12 percent protein finishing ration.

Illinois reports: Rate and efficiency of gain are maximized at a dietary protein concentration of 12 percent for barrows, but 14 percent for gilts. For maximum carcass leanness, 14 percent protein was required by barrows, but 16 percent for gilts.

Pork producers from time to time ask for corn samples to be analyzed for protein. Corn does differ as much as 3 percent.

Actually a pig does not have a requirement for protein as such, but does have a requirement for certain amino acids. Lysine and Trytophane are two of the most important ones to consider.

When corn is analyzed for both protein and amino acids, there is no correlation.

A new growth stimulant for steers has recently come on the market. It's called "Ralgro." This product differs from stilbestrol in that it is an "anabolic" agent, not a harmone. The manufacturer claims an increased growth rate in the feed lot of 10% and an improved feed efficiency of 7%.

We do not have any independant research on this material. It will be tested this year in Virginia.

In 1968 there were about 6000 acres of no-tillage corn grown in Virginia. In 1969 this figure grew to nearly 40,000. All indications are that it will be up again in '70.

Research from 1962-68 demonstrates an increase of 16.1 bushels per acre when grown by the no-till compared with the conventional system.

You should be able to set cabbage next week. Usually it's safe to transplant bags a month before the freeze date.

It's time to prune apples, and other fruits. There's an extension leaflet on how to do it available from this office.

Before starting the job of the pruning equipment sharp and well oiled?

Four tobacco growers will be seeding the new Fire-Cured Tobacco Variety this year. Growing the tobacco are Williamson, John Cole, Thompson, and T. H. It's hoped that by growing a very limited amount of seed several sections of the county we can better evaluate the variety.

The new variety, Ky. 170, is not yet recommended for Virginia. These growers are participating in a test that is available at the Experiment Station.

$5 Million In General Bonds

Fidelity National Bank has negotiated $5 million in general obligation bonds for the City of Newport News, assording to an announcement made by Mayor Donald M. Hyatt after a meeting of the Newport News City Council. The issue will bear 5.99 per cent interest.

Fidelity recently handled successful negotiations of this nature for the cities of Portsmouth in the amount of $10,600-000 and Danville in the amount of $2,725,000.

Lucky Clover 4-H

The Lucky Clover 4-H had a cover dish supper for its new members and friends. It was held in the recreation hall in Rocks Baptist Church. There were several new members. The club has been studying foods and customs of other countries and preparing some of the foods at the meeting. The club decided to have an American cover dish supper for a change. Mrs. Richard Lucks was our guest. Everyone seemed to have enjoyed themselves.

Monday, February 9, the club met at Rocks Church. The president, Donna Smith, called the meeting to order. We had the pledges to the flags. Janet Hix had devotions. The meeting was turned over to Teresa McIntosh and Evelyn Crain. Teresa told us a little about Australia. We then enjoyed some Australian food the girls had prepared. The meeting was turned back over to Donna. The club then discussed how we should raise money to send our representative to Citizan Short Course. We decided to sell candy.

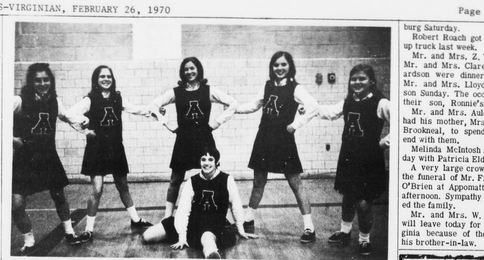
Teen-Agers To Have Own Camp

The Lynchburg Central YMCA will offer a new program this summer for teen-agers. It is called "Leadership Training" and will be conducted for eight weeks at Camp Rochichi, the Y's summer camp on Buggs Island Lake.

"Teen - agers need a constructive way to spend their school vacation," said Carl Manfield, the YMCA's camp director. The activities planned will be difficult enough to make them attractive to teen-agers. For example, after learning to water ski, there will be the challenge of learning to slalom (one ski) or fly the ski kite.

These older campers will have their own dormitory, a converted eleven - room farm house, a short distance from the main camp area and "taps" will be sounded for them later than for other campers. Their evening program will include study of leadership qualities, discussions of problems facing today's teen-agers and trips to nearby towns for a "night out." Special instructional classes will be offered them in life saving, first aid, camperaft and advanced water skiing. Mr. R. D. Floyd, of Monroe, one of the best known authorities on pleasure riding in Virginia will give them special instructions in horseback riding.



Victories To Cheer About!

Both the 8th graders and JV players of ACHS won their games last Thursday! These peppy cheerleaders were right there to lead an enthusiastic crowd of fans as the 8th grade team made it 32-22 against Staunton River and JV's clinched a "cliffhanger" with a 40-38 score in the last few second of the game. From the left: Nan Chambers, Connie Gill, Kathy Mitchell, Patty Sue Kerr, Kitty Simpson with Sally Harvey, captain, (seated).
